BODY OF YOUNG MAN IS IDENTIFIED FRIDAY

Was Junior in Racine High School—Killed by Train Month Ago.

After more than a month of futile effort to identify the body of the young man killed recently on the C. & O. railroad, and after hopes had just about been given up that any one would be located who might recognize the unfortunate youth, the body was identified Friday night as that of Albert Matthias Carnahan, 16, of Racine, in Meigs County.

Identification was established by the boy's father, William Carnahan, at the undertaking parlors of Leist & Davis, Beaver, where the body had been kept since its discovery near the railroad tracks.

The only clue to the boy's identification was an "R" on his sweater. Leist & Davis and the Pike County coroner sent out hundreds of letters to various high schools, in an effort to find a clue.

Finally one of these letters came to the desk of the superintendent of Racine High School. From there it found its way into the hands of Mr. Carnahan, and resulted in the identification.

The boy, a junior in the high school, had been missing since October 20. He wrote home on October 30, from Ashland, Ky. The parents were at a loss to know why the boy should have left home.
