CHARITY MINSTRELS

Given by Red Men Proved To Be a Very Fine Affair.

The Red Men's Charity Minstrels held at the Crescent Theatre last Monday evening was a great success. It proved to be one of the finest home talent shows put on in Jackson for several years. Mr. Harry Burnett, the director has worked very hard to put on this fine entertainment and Mr. T. A. Rogers interlocutor was especially entertaining. The costumes and stage settings were very attractive.

The music under the direction of Mr. Dale Jackson was highly appreciated. Some of the numbers are unexcelled by any local talent making a similar appearance.

Stingo Stungo as sang by Nick Watkins brought down the house and "I'm Going South" by Hod Washam was well received. Harry Curran sang "Sing Me a Song of Arabia" which he rendered in a most effective manner. Mr. Curran possesses a beautiful tenor voice. The quartette composed of Leo Montgomery, Billy Lee, Harry Curran and Carrol Bentine gave several numbers that were highly entertaining. They came back with several encore numbers in reply to the hearty applause they received.

Mr. Hod Washam and Bluke Faught gave a number "Hunting the Ha Has" that was very entertaining. The act by Wise and Wiser concluded the entertainment and formed a fitting climax.

Mr. Sam Garrett held the number that won the Ford Sedan given away at the close of the program.
