HOME OF IVAN SPRIGGS

Responses which have been already received show that the appeal for little Ivan Spriggs has not gone unheard; that the pitiable condition of the six-year-old cripple has touched the hearts of people throughout the county.

Wednesday morning the story of the unfortunate lad was told for the first time--and within an hour the first response was received. Up to Friday evening $129.75 was actually in the hands of Judge John G. Evans who is acting as treasurer of the fund.

Little Ivan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Spriggs of Jefferson Township. When he was three years old the boy was stricken with infantile paralysis. For many months he was helpless. But some ambition within the little fellow would not allow him to lie there a helpless invalid. He bravely struggled to move about like his brothers and sisters.

But the strength was not in his little crippled legs. He has never been able to stand erect. The best he can do is to go about on all fours.

You can imagine the emotions that are passing through the minds of Ivan's poverty-stricken parents, as they see the citizens of Jackson County giving to the fund which will take Ivan to Columbus, and, under the skilled hand of Dr. Steinfeld, noted orthopedic surgeon, make the boy able to walk once more.

MARY A. GARNES GRANTED DIVORCE; HUBBY NEGLECTFUL

Mary A. Garnes is again a free woman. Mary was divorced from her second husband William Hartley, Wednesday, on grounds of gross neglect.

And Hartley was a neglectful husband, evidence brought out in the case indicates. Ike Garnes, son of Mrs. Garnes by her first marriage, was asked how much money Hartley had given his wife during a certain period of time.

"I remember one nickel he gave her," was Ike's testimony.

The wife, asked a similar question, said that Hartley had given her a quarter.

She was then asked how she made her living. "Well, Judge," Mary told Judge Jones who heard the case, "I has two cows. One of 'em gives a whole lot of milk, and the other gives a right smart."

Mary was granted her divorce and restored to her former name. She is colored.
